Mei enforces visa ban

KUWAIT: The assistant undersecretary of the interior ministry for citizenship and passport affairs, Maj Gen Abdul Hameed Al-Awadhi has put a ban on issuing visas for domestic laborers younger than 20 and older than 50, except in special circumstances, reported Al-Rai. The decision stated that some immigration departments had been issuing visas for domestic laborers from the banned age categories, which caused the ministry a great deal of embarrassment with the embassies of the concerned countries.

Agility hearing on Jan 8

KUWAIT: Kuwaiti logistics firm Agility said yesterday a court hearing for its US fraud case has been scheduled for tomorrow. In November, a US grand jury indicted Agility on charges of fraud and conspiracy alleging it overcharged the US Army on $6.5 billion worth of contracts to provide food to soldiers in Iraq, Kuwait and Jordan. Agility, which supplies food to US soldiers in Iraq and Kuwait, said it had been temporarily suspended, but not delisted, from new US government contracts pending the outcome of the grand jury indictment.

Gulf currency by 2015

RIVADIE: A single Gulf Arab currency could be launched in 2015 if countries from the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) speed up the process, a senior official from the bloc's secretariat said yesterday. "I personally expect the single currency to be launched in 2015, if we step up the efforts and the work of various committees," Mohamed Al-Masrooqi, GCC Assistant Secretary General for Economic Affairs told Reuters. Masrooqi's comment is the first from the GCC secretariat that sets a potential timetable for the single currency's launch after the bloc abandoned an initial 2010 deadline.

Iran diplomat quits

OSLO: A diplomat at the Iranian embassy in Norway told Norwegian television yesterday that he had resigned in protest over a crackdown on demonstrators in Iran but the government in Tehran denied the report. "It was the Iranian authorities' treatment of demonstrators during the Christmas week that made me realise I couldn't continue," public broadcaster NRK quoted Mohammed Reza Heydari as saying. Heydari, who NRK said had served as a consul at the embassy for the last three years, was not reachable for comment. Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesman Hassan Mousavinasari told Reuters. "The report is baseless. A diplomat returns to the country when his mission is finished in another country." Norway's Immigration Directorate said it does not discuss any individual cases when asked if Heydari was seeking asylum as some media reports suggested.

Bahrain opens industrial city

MANAMA: The Gulf state of Bahrain yesterday opened a new industrial city that cost around two billion dollars to build and aims at luring much-needed investments and creating jobs. King Hamad officially inaugurated the city which is now housing 156 companies - local and foreign - who are in the process of investing $3.5 billion and providing more than 25,000 new jobs. Minister of Trade and Industry Hassan Fakhro said total investment in the city is expected to increase to $7.6 billion over the next few years. The city is located close to a new port opened by Bahrain last month that can handle up to 1.1 million containers a year.

KUWAIT: The National Assembly yesterday passed a historic law that requires the government to forgive close to two billion dinars of interest on debts of Kuwaiti citizens and reschedule the principal debt over at least 10 years. Thirty-five MPs voted for the controversial legislation in its second and final round of voting, 22 opposed it while one lawmaker abstained. The government swiftly said it will reject the law because of its technical, constitutional and procedural shortcomings which make it very difficult to implement.

Cairo allows aid into Gaza

One dead as Hamas, Egypt clash across border

RAFAH: Egypt has reached a deal with members of an aid convoy to take supplies to Palestinians in Gaza after protests overnight, but Cairo barred their private cars from crossing, an Egyptian security source said. Cairo had insisted the food and other supplies should enter Gaza via an Israeli-controlled checkpoint but convoy leaders wanted to use the Egyptian-controlled Rafah border crossing. Overnight, Egyptian security forces and members of the convoy, which is led by left-wing British politician George Galloway, threw stones at each other when tempers frayed over the route the trucks were to take.

And in a further sign of the tensions surrounding the border, an Egyptian soldier was killed and four Palestinians were wounded in a gun battle in Rafah during a separate protest against an anti-smuggling wall Cairo is building on the Gaza border. The official Egyptian news agency MENA said 17 Egyptian soldiers were also injured and seven foreign activists were arrested. Hamas called the incident "regrettable". "We are not interested in raising tension at the border," said spokesman Sami Abu Zuhri. But he said the protest was the result of the anger felt in Gaza over the Egyptian decision to build the underground barrier. Hundreds of demonstrators held up green Hamas flags and chanted "God is greatest." "One metre away from Egypt, we ask: why the siege?" Hamas MP Mushir Al-Masri told the demonstrators. "We came today to say no to the wall," he said.

The shooting was the most serious incident between Egyptian forces and Hamas since Cairo began an underground steel barrier a month ago. The project could choke off the movement of weapons and goods through tunnels into the Gaza Strip. Israel and Egypt maintain a blockade of the territory, which is ruled by Hamas Islamists who oppose international efforts to achieve Israeli-Palestinian peace.

Under the compromise aid deal, 158 trucks will be allowed through Rafah in Gaza, the Egyptian security source said, but 40 private cars in the convoy would have to stay in Egypt for a month for security procedures and then pass through into Gaza via an Israeli checkpoint. As part of the deal, Turkey would intervene to guarantee that Israel would allow the cars into Gaza, the source said. Continued on Page 14

Yemen opposes US troops in terror fight

Key Qaeda chief arrested

SANAA: Yemen's foreign minister said yesterday that his country opposes any direct intervention by US or other foreign troops in the fight against Al-Qaeda. Foreign Minister Abu Bakr Al-Qirbi told AP in an interview that "there is a lot of sensitivity about foreign troops coming to Yemeni territory." His comments came as Yemeni security forces captured a key Al-Qaeda leader and two other militants believed behind threats against Western interests in Sanaa which prompted embassies to bolt their doors.

The arrest of Mohammed Al-Haq and the two other suspected extremists at a hospital in Raydah, north of capital, came as Yemeni authorities said Al-Qaeda jihadists were being choked country-wide and forced into "holes".

Haq had evaded arrest on Monday during a security force raid in Arhab, 40 km north of Sanaa, in which two of his relatives were killed and three other people wounded.

A security official told AFP security forces had yesterday morning swooped on a hospital in Raydah, 80 km, north of Sanaa in Amran province, where the suspects were receiving treatment. "Mohammed Al-Haq and two others who were wounded were captured in a hospital in Amran," the official said. Four men who had transported the wounded to the hospital and hid them from police were also taken into custody, the defence ministry-linked news website 28Sep.net said. Two other Al-Qaeda suspects
